0955-1000	Closing Remarks: Prof Deepak B Phatak, Director, SKOCH Development Foundation
1000-1130	Power Panel: The Economics of Inclusion
	In the Interim Budget, Modi Government announced a scheme to give Rs 6,000 cash per year to farmers who have land holding upto 2 hectares (nearly 5 acres). The announcement came just a few days after Congress party chief Rahul Gandhi talked of minimum income guarantee. Giving out doles seems to be the biggest poll promise of not just the ruling BJP and main opposition Congress, but most other political parties have also come out with their own promises of showering the voters with doles in the run-up to the 2019 election. In Telangana, state government gives to farmers Rs 8,000 per acre a year. In Odisha, all farmers get Rs 5,000 in cash. Several other states are also running similar schemes. No doubt, there is agrarian crisis. Farming has become unsustainable and there is a growing challenge of unemployment. Can these doles help address the challenges facing the country today? Moreover, it will also have a big impact on the federal structure of the country as the Centre and the States compete with each other to influence loyalty. In view of this, the panel will discuss the following: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Where will the money come from? 2. Is this an adequate redressal mechanism? 3. Impact on the fiscal deficit and the economy

THE INCLUSION MANIFESTO

1200-1330	Power Panel: How to Identify and Deliver Income Transfers?
	Direct money transfers seem to be the flavour of the season. While the idea of universal basic income enjoys widespread support from economists, in India we like to complicate things. Every income transfer and payment comes with several conditions. These include identification, authentication and now even the exact socio-economic status of the beneficiary. The schemes attempt to do this at an individual level based on incomes or land holdings. Such a complex system can be a governance and technology nightmare. While India does boast of JAM trinity, its performance even on authentication and identification has been questioned and many exclusions reported. This panel then examines: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What could be the methodology to identify, authenticate and do socio-economic mapping? 2. Is the JAM infrastructure adequate or needs to be re-looked to deliver these objectives? 3. What happens to security, self-sovereignty and privacy in such a scenario?
	Moderator: Prof Deepak B Phatak, Director, SKOCH Development Foundation

THE INCLUSION MANIFESTO

1430-1600	Power Panel: Has Marginalisation become Aspirational?
	The focus of major mass protests and youth movements in the recent years has been demand for reservation. Marathas are pitching for reservations in Maharashtra, Patidars are seeking reservation in Gujarat and there have been violent protests by Jats in Haryana and Rajasthan for seeking reservation under the OBC category. In the run-up to the general election Modi government has pushed forward a new reservation law in place that seeks to provide 10 per cent reservation for 'economically weaker section'. Only general caste person with income more than Rs. 8 lakh per year or have land more than 5 acres are excluded from the reservation. Nearly 99 per cent population is now covered under one or other form of reservation. This means almost everyone in the country is marginalised. There is growing competition and clamour to get into the category of marginalised. This panel will discuss the following: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Should marginalisation be viewed through the prism of minority, geography, gender, caste, religion or income? 2. Likely impact of the Citizenship Amendment Bill on marginalisation? 3. Battle for the shrinking pie or to expand the pie?
